"Human Fly" to Scale Bank Building

HARRY GARDNER TO CLIMB WALLS FIVE
STORY BANK BLDG.Tomorrow Evening Under Auspices of Dixon
Legion Post

Harry H. Gardner, world famous as "The Human Fly," will defy death tomorrow evening at 7:30 when he scales the outside walls of the Dixon National Bank Building on the corner of First Street and Gaena Avenue in Dixon. This public exhibition is being held under the auspices of the Dixon Post of the American Legion, Mr. Gardner having come here at the invitation of Commander Willard Thompson. All preliminary arrangements for this spectacular feat have been completed and the public is assured that there will be no hitch in the plans.

"The Human Fly," dressed in white and under the glare of a powerful searchlight, will commence his ascent of the five story building promptly at 7:30, regardless of weather conditions. He will climb the outside wall of the tall building, without the aid of any manner of mechanical device, and will descend by the same method. His only aids will be his fingers and toes and a colossal nerve. He will perform feats and stunts, going up and down, which will give Dixon people thrills aplenty. He'll stand on his head on the edge of the roof five stories above the hard, hard pavement and a hundred times during the exhibition this intrepid performer will risk a terrible death to show his agility, fearlessness and scorn of danger for the entertainment of the crowd.

Proceeds to Legion
Prior to the exhibition members of the local legion post will pass among the crowd offering tips for sale. The proceeds of the voluntary collection will go to the American Legion.

Arrangements will be made to keep automobile traffic away from the vicinity of the bank building during the hour of exhibition. A prominent speaker is to precede the exhibition with an address to the crowd and an introduction of this justly famous climber.

Mr. Gardner is a very interesting and exceptional character. He is 35 years old and has the distinction of being the only real, original "Human Fly," for he was so christened by President Grover Cleveland way back in 1895 when the President was watching him climb the 150 foot flagstaff that rose over Grant's tomb on the banks of the Hudson. Of course, with all his charm, we can't give him 100 per cent because it seems to us that this dapper little athlete, a university graduate and mighty well informed and cultured, must have, at that, a queer complex somewhere about his neck every few days after so many years of successful exploits. He apparently loves the game and the excitement and thrill of it, but the newspaper files show that more than a hundred of these wall scalars have fallen and died in the last few years.

He'll Never Grow Old
We guess that Mr. Gardner is best example of "how to keep from growing old." His work certainly keeps him young and if he keeps at it he'll never grow old.

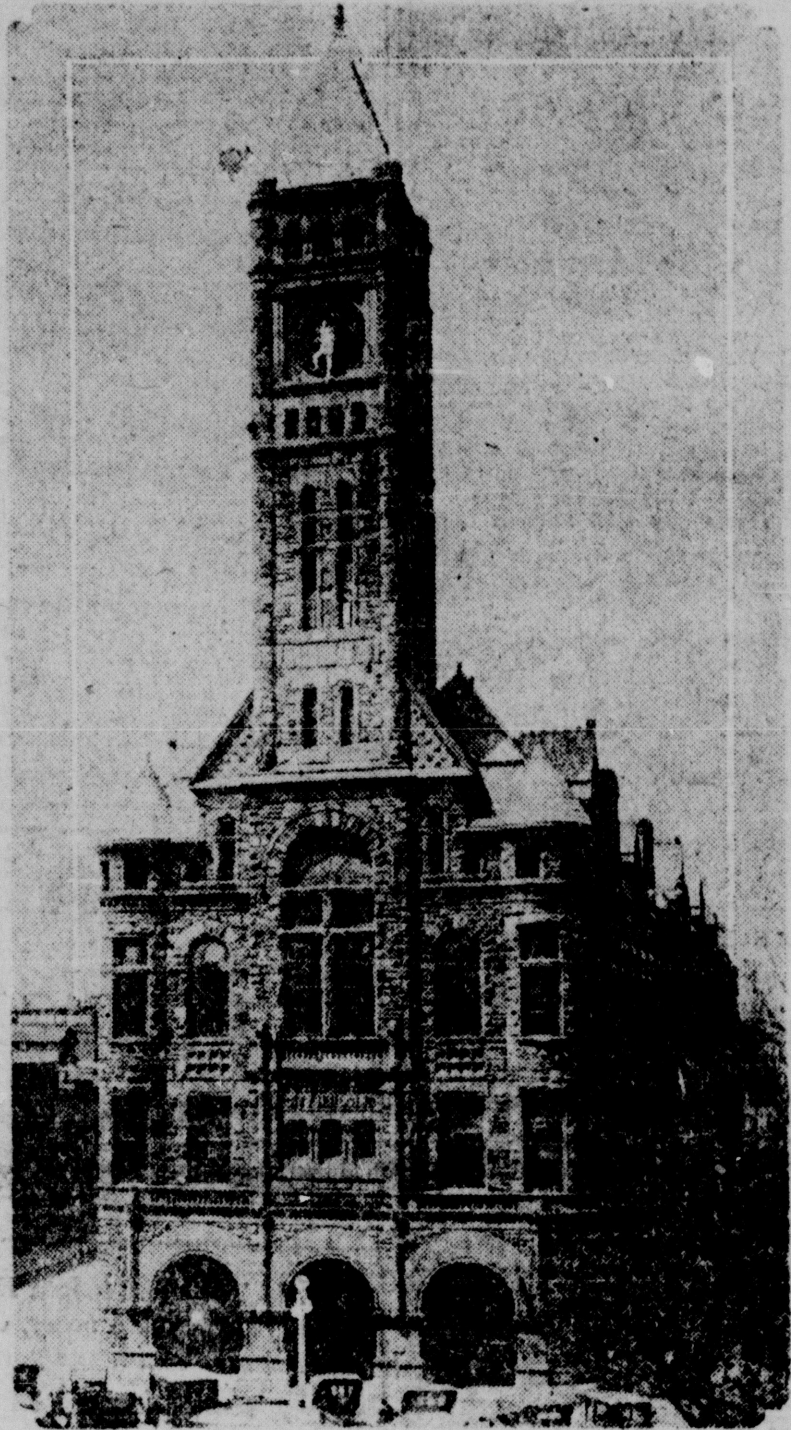

He says there is no danger in climbing if you don't fall. He depends upon his splendid physical condition, the remarkable strength of his fingers and the concentration of his mind. The "elimination of fear" is given credit by the climber for a greater part of his success. He can pull his weight up with his fingertips if he has a projection of a quarter of an inch to hold on to. Try that tonight at home and see if you can do it.

Thursday night, promptly at 7:30, at the Dixon National Bank Building on the corner of First Street and Gaena, you can see Mr. Gardner "do his stuff." There will undoubtedly be large crowds from all over this vicinity. A voluntary offering for the benefit of the Dixon post of the American Legion will be taken. Permission for the climb has been granted.

Wounded Dove Rescued
by Mrs. Stanbrough

One day last week a mourning dove, badly injured by some careless hunter, was found at the suburban home of Mrs. Foster Stanbrough. Mrs. Stanbrough took the injured dove into the house and sewed up the gaping wound in its breast and the bird is on the way to recovery. It would seem that if a hunter wounds a bird so as to incapacitate it, that he would go a little further and put the suffering bird out of its pain and misery.

He'll Perform This Stunt in Dixon

HARRY GARDNER "HUMAN FLY"

See him way up on the face of the clock. He'll perform a similar stunt here tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock for the benefit of Dixon Post, No. 12, American Legion, when he will scale the wall of the five-story Dixon National Bank building.

DIXON STUDENT'S ESSAY SECOND IN
30,000 CONSIDEREDDonald Crews Winner of Second in State-Wide
Contest

One of the Dixon high school students is a winner in the state wide essay contest conducted by the New Industries Committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. "Why New Industries Should Come to My Home City" was the submitted theme upon which the essays were to be written. Over 550 Dixon high school students submitted essays and the one which was adjudged the best of these became entered in the state wide contest according to the established rules. 20,000 students from sixty Illinois cities participated.

Donald L. Crews, a student in his junior year in the North Side high school, was the author of the essay which was adjudged best among those submitted by local high school students and was accordingly submitted in the state wide contest and among some 30,000 entrants was adjudged to be the second best essay. Various prizes as recognition of merit had been offered and the merit of Donald Crews' essay resulted in his winning of $50.00, the second prize offered by the New Industries Committee of the Illinois Chamber and also $15.00, the first prize offered by the New Industries Committee of the Dixon Chamber for the best essay submitted by local high school students.

Eighteen Prizes Given.
Eighteen prizes, in all, were contributed by local merchants and offered to the Dixon students. In addition to the essay submitted by Donald Crews, two others have so far been graded and awarded second and third. The one awarded second had been submitted by Deith Slothower and Lucille Case was the author of the one adjudged third, both being students in the South Side high school. The grading of the other papers is now being done by the judges. The closeness of the other papers is such as to require exceedingly careful analysis by the judges and this is requiring considerable time.

The essay by Donald Crews follows: "Dixon is ideally located for industries because of its transportation facilities, cheap rate of power, and high living standard."

"Two railroads run through our city: the main line of the Chicago & Northwestern running east and west and connecting with all railroads of the United States in Chicago, and a branch line of the Illinois Central running north and south. These roads have switch tracks in many parts of the city, including one along the river bank. This bank would be an ideal site for industrial plants. Here, also, is the one empty industrial building, a three story brick structure containing 18,000 square feet of floor space. Five cement highways lead into Dixon, giving it the name of 'The Hub City.'"

"The hydro-electric and steam generating stations have a combined maximum capacity of 10,000 horse power. Almost any amount of power can be concentrated here since this station is 'tied in' with power lines to all stations in northern Illinois. Our tax rate is 5.245 per $100."

"We have several beautiful parks, the most popular of which is Lowell Park, a wooded land of 200 acres on the picturesque Rock River, the 'Tribune of the West.' There is a modern theater, two golf courses, various social and civic clubs, churches of nearly every denomination and several good schools."

"This all combines to make Dixon an ideal social and industrial home."

Free Entertainment
by M. W. A. this Eve

Ceaselessly the scroll of time unrolls, bringing to every mortal the changes to which are attached whatever of interest, life may hold. The hour glass, which symbolizes the passing of time, supplies the title for a photoplay as told in motion pictures, which will help to bring to every man who is, or hopes to become head of a family a fuller realization of his responsibilities. First presentation of "The Hour Glass" in Dixon will be given at Union Hall, this evening at 8 o'clock. It will be shown under the auspices of Dixon Camp No. 56, Modern Woodmen of America, by special arrangement with the national headquarters at Rock Island, Ill.

This is a brand new four-reel film with unusual spectacular features and rapid-life action. Part of the story was filmed at the Society's free Sanatorium near Colorado Springs where the bright sun and vivid color contrasts make the camera so effective. Here, in large part, was enacted an interesting little drama which might have ended in tragedy, but didn't. Modern Woodmen who know the signs of the forest may guess why. Others will be afforded the opportunity to witness the showing of this interesting photoplay.

Admission will be free and the party is invited to come as guests of Dixon Camp No. 56.

Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Walter Johnson pitched the world's champion Washington Senators to brilliant victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 4 to 1, in the first game of the 1925 championship series.

A vast and colorful crowd of 45,000, filling the field to capacity, saw the downfall of their favorites and National League champions, who were baffled and held to five hits by Johnson while the Senators hammered Lee Meadows, bespectacled Pirate finger, and his successor, Johnny Morrison, for eight safe blows, most of them when they counted most.

FIRST INNING

Washington—There was a big cheer when the Pirates trotted onto the field and Sam Rice took his position on the plate. Meadows threw out a few balls for a final tryout and the game was on. Gov. Pinchot threw out the first ball and his control was good, the ball reaching Meadows.

Wright threw out Rice at first. Rice hitting the first ball pitched. Traynor took Stan Harris' hopper and got him at first. Meadows fanned George, the batter missing the third strike by a foot. Goslin went out to Grantham unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Rice came in fast and took Moore's fly. Carey was hit on the arm by one of Johnson's speed balls, but went out trying to steal. Ruel to Peck. Cuyler fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Washington—Judge went out, Wright to Grantham. Joe Harris hit a long one into right field which the umpire ruled had hit in the stands and bounded out, and gave him a home run. Bluge fanned. Carey gathered in Peck's high fly after he had sent a long foul into left. One run, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—The fans were friendly and gave Harris a great cheer as he went into right field. Rice went over to deep left to take Barnhart's fly. Traynor got a line single into right for Pittsburgh's first hit. Wright forced Traynor, Judge to Peck. Grantham fanned on a fast one. No runs, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Washington—Traynor robbed Ruel of a two base hit with a leaping catch of a hard hit ball. Johnson went out, Wright to Grantham. Rice singled into right, but was picked off first, Meadows to Grantham. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Smith flied out to Joe Harris. The fans cheered Meadows when he went to bat, and he drew a base on balls. Moore hit into a double play, Peck to Judge. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Washington—Stan Harris hit by a pitched ball. Grantham took Goslin's liner and doubled Stan Harris at first. Judge went out, Moore to Grantham. Meadows threw nothing but curved ball all the inning. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Carey fanned on three pitched balls. Cuyler got a hit over the middle bag. It was the second hit off Johnson. Cuyler was run down between first and second. Ruel to Judge to Peck to Judge to Stan Harris. Barnhart fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Washington—Joe Harris got a hit into deep short. Bluge singled to left, Joe Harris stopping at second. Morrison started warming up for the Pirates. Peck singled to left, Harris going to third and Bluge to second. Alling the bases with only one out. Ruel fanned. The Pittsburgh infield played back for a double play. Some spectators hopped over the boxes and the game was stopped until the field was cleared. Johnson fanned. The crowd was frantic. Joe Harris and Bluge scored on Rice's single to center. Peck going to second. Traynor threw out Stan Harris at first. Two runs, four hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Traynor hit a homer into the right field stands and the stands rose and cheered him as he crossed the plate. Wright fanned. Peck took Grantham's grounder and threw wild to first. Smith flied to Joe Harris. Grantham stole second. Meadows fanned. One run, one hit, one error.

Grandfather of "Big Train" Died Tuesday

Santa Monica, Calif., Oct. 7.—(AP)—John L. Perry, 82, grandfather of Walter Johnson, Washington pitcher, died here yesterday.

SIXTH INNING

Washington—Smith too Goslin's pop. Carey went back and got Judge's long hold. He also took Joe Harris' high fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—The crowd pleaded for a rally. Marberry went out to warm up for Washington. Bluge made easy work of Moore's grounder and got him at first. Carey went out to Judge unassisted. Joe Harris came in and gathered in Cuyler's fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Washington—Bluge fanned. Peck went out Traynor to Grantham. Ruel out, Meadows to Grantham. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Barnhart struck out, the third strike being a fast ball around his neck. Rice went over to the fence to take Traynor's long fly. Johnson had the old fire ball working this inning and the Pirates couldn't see his speed, Wright and Barnhart striking out for the second time. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Washington—The crowd gave John son a big ovation. Wright made a leaping catch of Johnson's seeming hit. Wright threw out Rice at first, and did the same thing with Stan Harris. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—Grantham hit a high one to Joe Harris. Smith singled to center, Bluge running for him. McInnis, batting for Meadows, fanned on three pitched balls. Bluge stole second. Bluge took Moore's hot smash and threw him out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Washington—Morrison went to the box for Pittsburgh and Gooch took Smith's place as catcher. Goslin singled into right. Judge sacrificed, Grantham to Moore. Joe Harris fanned. Goslin scored on Bluge's single to center, Bluge going to second on the throw in. Morrison threw out Peck at first. One run, two hits, no errors.

Pittsburgh—McNeely went to the center for the Senators and Rice moved over to right. Carey was hit by a pitched ball for the second time. Cuyler fanned. Barnhart singled to left, Carey stopping at second. Traynor flied to McNeely. Wright out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

May Carry Mitchell's
Case to Legion Meeting

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 7.—(AP)—No matter what the fate in committee of proposed resolutions regarding Col. William Mitchell, the army's "in bad" critic of nation's air service, indications were strong today that the subject of adopting an official attitude towards the Colonel would be taken to the floor of the American Legion's seventh national convention for a decisive vote.

The Rev. J. M. Lonergan of Illinois, national chaplain of the Legion, last night was chosen by the Oregon delegation to take the place of the state's delegate at large, who did not come to the convention. Chaplain Lonergan is known as a man of strong convictions and a powerful orator.

He also is known to be a strong supporter of Colonel Mitchell, and in the unusual move by the Oregon representatives, some of the delegates proposed to see a determined move towards a showdown in the Mitchell matter.

Chicago Cash Grain.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Although the wheat market opened with an upward slant today, heavy profit taking led soon to downturns, continued unfavorable weather in Canada and strength of quotations at Liverpool were the main bullish factors. The opening was unchanged to 1/4¢ higher, new style, Dec. 1.41 1/2@1.42 and May 1.42 1/2@1.43, followed by a reaction to 1.40 1/4; Dec. and 1.40 1/4, May. Corn was governed largely by action of wheat. Reports of frost were without influence, the crop being practically all matured. After opening 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ advance, Dec. 78 1/2¢, the market receded to below yesterday's high.
Oats started 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ higher, Dec. 40 1/2¢. Later quotations showed some loss.

YOUTH AND MIDDLE AGE—

Youth is the time for action—middle age for thought. In youth, red-handed, red-ankled, with songs and shoutings, we gather in the grapes; in middle age, under our own fig tree or in quiet gossip with a friend, we drink the wine free of all turbid lees. Youth is a lyrical poet—middle age is a quiet essayist, fond of recounting experiences, and of appending a moral to every incident. In youth the world is strange and unfamiliar, novel and exciting, everything wears the face and garb of a stranger; in middle age the world is covered over with reminiscences as with a garment, it is made homely with usage, it is made sacred with graves.

Missionary Circle Enjoyed Meeting

The Young People's Missionary Circle held its regular monthly meeting at the Grace Evangelical church on Monday evening. Misses Mildred and Ethelyn Schrock had charge of the meeting which followed the picnic supper. Lois Brand-fellner sang a solo and Miss Anna Osicka played a piano solo, both of which were well received. The missionary leaflet was read by Miss Ethelyn Schrock. After another song Miss Helen Bose, president of the Circle took charge of the business session. John 3:16 was repeated at the close by all. The meeting was attended by twenty-nine members and friends. Two new members were received. A social time was enjoyed by all.

Bible Class Enjoyed Evening

The Men's Bible Class of the Grace Evangelical church was entertained by Grant Lievan, night watchman at the Reynolds Wire Screen factory on Monday evening. Before the meeting opened an opportunity was given to follow Mr. Lievan through-out the building and while passing through he explained the various machines and the mode of making wire screen, etc. The trip was one enjoyed by all and appreciated as well. Rev. A. L. Sellers, pastor of the Church of the Brethren gave a very interesting address on "Soul Winning" or "Selling the Religion of Jesus Christ," to the fifteen men present.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—

Chilled melon, cereal, thin cream, fried dried beef, crisp rye toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—

Tomatoes stuffed with oysters, brain bread, apple sauce, ginger cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—

Veal loaf, scalloped potatoes, creamed carrots, fruit salad, toasted crackers with cheese, whole wheat bread, floating island, milk, coffee.

The most loaf suggested in the dinner menu can be served hot or cold, depending on the weather. It is also a valuable addition to a "dinner pad" and well worth serving to the family frequently. Children of school age are usually well pleased at the family table and it is an excellent way to add meat to the diet of younger children.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Oysters.

Four medium sized tomatoes, eight large oysters, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper.

Wash tomatoes and cut a slice from the stem end. Scoop out seeds leaving a firm shell. Sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt and turn upside down for thirty minutes. Rub pulp through a strainer to remove seeds. Add cracker crumbs to tomato juice and water or milk to make moist. Season with salt and pepper. Put a little of this mixture into the tomato shells. Put two oysters in each tomato and cover with crumb mixture. Dot with butter and replace slices cut from stem end. Place in a well buttered baking dish or ramikins and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Remove slice and brown crumbs under a gas flame. Serve at once.

FLANK STEAK CHEAP BUT TASTY.

The mother who must plan for a hungry family must watch the pennies as well as the dollars if she would give them nourishing food at a moderate cost. We all realize that there's nothing like beef for rosy cheeks and vigorous bodies but porterhouse and sirloin are out of the question for the average family very often and the so-called "cheaper cuts" usually seem to have so much waste in bone and gristle that if any actual meat is provided for the family there's nothing cheap about them after all.

And here is where the flank steak comes in. It's a cheap cut but there is no waste. It's nourishing and at the same time most palatable if care is taken in its preparation.

Braised Flank Steak.

One flank steak, 1/2 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar.

Score steak well on both sides. Make a paste of the sugar, salt, mustard and vinegar and spread over the meat. Let stand two or three hours and place in a casserole with 1 cup boiling water. Cover and cook in a moderate oven for two hours. Pour over the liquid and serve on a hot platter. More water can be added and the liquid thickened and served in a separate dish like any meat gravy.

Roled Flank Steak.

Prepare steak with the vinegar and mustard dressing as in the preceding recipe. Cover with the following stuffing, roll and tie.

Stuffing—One and one-half cups stale coarse bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, hot water.

Mix salt, pepper and onion with bread crumbs. Add melted butter, mixing with a fork and coating each crumb with butter. Add a very little hot water, just enough to hold the dressing together. Cover meat with dressing and roll loosely. Bind securely with cord, dredge with flour and bake two or three hours in a moderate oven. Baste frequently with hot water and 2 tablespoons bacon fat while baking. Remove cord from roll and serve on a hot platter.

Casserole of Steak with Vegetables.

One cup sliced carrots, 2 cups sliced potatoes, 1/2 cup sliced turnip, 1 large onion, salt and pepper.

Spread meat with paste as in preceding recipe and cut the steak to fit the casserole. Oil casserole well with bacon fat. If the steak is cut in three pieces put a third of the vegetables in the casserole. Arrange in layers, slicing onion through them. Season with salt and pepper and cover with a piece of meat. Continue layer for layer of meat and vegetables until all is used. Add 1 cup of boiling water. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for two and one-half hours. Serve from casserole.

Phidian Art Club Luncheon Much Enjoyed

The Phidian Art Club opened its year's work on Tuesday afternoon at the Dixon Inn. The members and guests assembled at 1 o'clock and after a dainty luncheon had been served Mrs. A. F. Moore with a few appropriate remarks introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Geisenheimer, whose subject was "Here and There on the Continent," then proceeded to take her hearers on a most delightful journey, first to Berlin, then to Nice and back to Paris with many stops and side trips.

First she brought greetings to the club from one of its former members, Mrs. J. N. Sterling, with whom she spent some time in Nice. From old friends she passed on to the wonderful experiences of travel; the pleasure of seeing picturesque old villages clinging to the mountain side; or, on level ground, making a spot of color with their red-tile roofs and weathered stone houses; the towns of the Riviera engaged in making perfume; or those of the champagne country occupied entirely with the manufacture of wine. She told of the Promenade for the fashionable at Nice, the wonderful gardens, the entrancing flower markets, the solemn cathedral with its dim place in contrast to the narrow dirty streets whose clothes lines flaunted all sorts of gay colors. Her visit to the battlefields and the American cemeteries were interesting and the description of the restored area of France made the war seem much like history. While in Nice she attended the funeral of Jean de Reske and saw many notable people who had come to pay a last tribute to that great artist. Another high spot was the sight of King George laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Paris.

Perhaps the most interesting comments were those made on the actual conditions in Germany which Miss Geisenheimer had a rare opportunity to study through a friend who knew and could show her the life below the surface which appears so comfortable. Altogether it was a most pleasant story for the ones who listened to Miss Geisenheimer's well-chosen bits from her travels told in an interesting way and colored with her individual ideas.

MAYBE THIS IS SO, AND MAYBE NOT SO—

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Miss Marion Talley, unobbed soprano from Kansas City, who has achieved a Metropolitan Opera contract at the age of 18, likes to cook. Her preference is for layer cakes, but she will boil potatoes, or fry chicken with nearly as much pleasure.

"Marion does most of the cooking," Mrs. Talley said. "She likes to shop for groceries and choose the food." Several of her interviewers promptly discovered that buttons were missing from coats or shirts, and she offered to mend them later as proof of her domestic tendencies.

Her mother said that she had followed a regular and strict program as to diet and sleeping since infancy. Her father, a telegraph operator of the Missouri Pacific Railway at Kansas City, is not expected to move to New York at present.

Interviewers were amazed to note that the young singer used no cosmetics and was dressed with almost severe simplicity. She gave the following as the ten commandments for success: Talent, study, rest, exercise, simplicity, obedience, concentration, patience, work and work.

"I put down work twice because it is the most important," she explained.

Making Karpen Furniture America's Preferred Furniture

Two artists work side by side. Both have equally fine paints, brushes and canvass. Both are painting the same sunset. Yet the work of one is a masterpiece; the other's a daub.

Like painting, furniture designing and craftsmanship are fine arts. Money can buy cabinet making tools and materials. The feeling for beauty and a skill for giving it form are of far greater importance and not so easily acquired. The first must be inborn; the second developed by long years of work and study.

As you look through our stock of furniture, you sense something about all the furniture presented, whatever its price range, that marks it as aristocratic. The difference is hard to describe, but you enjoy it in every piece. It is the quality that makes people want to own it, makes them proud when it is theirs.

For the reason, you must go back to the Eighteenth century. Out of that age, which contributed so much beauty to furniture, came a cabinet maker named KARPEN. His taste and craftsman's skill has been handed down through five generations, from KARPEN to KARPEN.

This is the priceless heritage which is reflected today in every piece of KARPEN furniture. No amount of money can buy it—it costs you nothing.

The KARPENS of today have a cherished goal—to bring fine furniture within easy reach of every home. The good taste of American home-makers has aided this ambition. Their response has created tremendous output which, in turn, has cut production costs to low levels impossible to smaller makers.

Price, however, is not the sole measure of KARPEN value. There is not a piece of KARPEN furniture which could not be duplicated in outside appearance at one-half the price.

Quality in every detail, whether seen or buried from view, is a first law in the KARPEN Shops. This law operates from choosing the woods and searching the looms of the world for fabrics all the way up to the final inspection.

BOATING ACROSS CONTINENT.

Train journeys across the United States are an old story. Motor tours from sea to sea are growing commonplace. Flying across is losing its novelty. But here is something new and appealing:

Two young men, John Hoag and Frank Wilton, have crossed the continent in an eighteen foot boat, with out-board motor, from Oregon to New York, a trip of nearly 6000 miles, taking a little over four months.

It is simpler than most travelers would suppose. The entire trip required only one portage of 400 miles, over the continental divide. They really could not sail over the Rockies.

After shipping their craft from the upper Columbia, in eastern Washington, to Fort Benton, Mont., they had fairly easy going down the long stretches of Missouri river, 2280 miles to St. Louis, thence up the Mississippi only a little way to the Illinois river, from which they reached Lake Michigan via the Chicago drainage canal. Thence they followed the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence to Montreal, where they turned south through Richelieu river and Lake George and the Delaware and Hudson canal to the Hudson, and so by easy stages to New York City.

Hardships? These pioneer navigators say no. They had only one accident worth mentioning, when a sunken log in the Columbia river ripped out a bit of planking soon after their start. They agree that it was a grand voyage, full of fine scenery, pleasant associations and healthful recreation. And now that they have blazed the way, it may soon be necessary to place a line of traffic cops on our inland waterways.

SMART CRIMINALS.

You can't get away with it!

A Los Angeles councilman was arrested for bribery, and his brother sought to divert sympathy by writing a fake letter to himself and pretending to dynamite his house. He overdid the explosion and wrecked the house and injured himself, and the deception was discovered with a few hours.

A San Francisco murderer beheaded his victim, cut the head into small bits, and scattered them in an isolated swamp. Some children playing found an ear.

Search revealed a wisp of hair and some teeth. From these, the victim was identified in a few hours, and clues of the suspected murderer revealed.

You don't get away with it. Not with the "smart" crimes. If you must be a criminal, be a stupid one. There are so many of these that some of them get away.

The smart ones all fail.

ANOTHER BIG WAR CLOUD.

If Britain and Turkey go to war over Mosul, as is not at all unlikely now, and if the rest of Europe keeps hands off, the Turk would be likely to get the worst of it. But here red Russia looms up again as a world menace. If she joins forces with Turkey, then there's no telling how many other European nations may become involved. It might easily become an all-Europe war. Unless—unless the United States waked up to see civilization again threatened. Then, however reluctantly, we'd rise up and make it unanimous, we'd make it another World war. Therefore, we're fervently praying that Britain and Turkey may settle their differences. Or let the league of nations settle them for them. It seems that Turkey is willing to let the league take up the matter for decision, but if the league should decide against Turkey, she would repudiate the decision.

Farmers of Illinois market more grain through their organizations than do those of any other state in the union. It ranges 30 percent above Iowa, which is second.

Scientists say the earthquake was of the Teontic variety. We thought so.

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moscow—With Russia off the water wagon, every body is rushing the growler so hard that the supply of vodka and other such things is dwindling rapidly. There have been fines for blocks outside dispensaries.

SNOW IN DAKOTAS AS MIDWEST DIGS OUT WINTER COATS

Trains Delayed in West by Approach of Real Winter Weather

Chicago, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The midwest is overcast and snow showers are being wielded in South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming.

But while success from shivers is promised the far west today, the wheat belt looks for its first snow and the eastern section may expect, later in the week, temperatures approaching 40.

There is five inches of snow in Lead, S. D. The white blanket in Casper, Wyo., is three inches thick and elsewhere east of the continental divide is averaged down to an inch.

Heavy rains are reported over a storm area in the Rocky Mountain section, reaching as far south as New Mexico and Arizona. Hundreds of men are repairing land slides and washouts along the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad, near Grand Junction, Colorado, near where a locomotive plunged through a rain-weakened bridge yesterday, seriously injuring two trainmen.

U. P. Trains Delayed Union Pacific trains are delayed in Wyoming.

Freezing temperatures and light snow near Bozeman, Mont., are delaying threshing with about fifty percent of the spring grain yet to be worked. Forecast of rising temperatures may bring resumption. Helena, Mont., thermometers read 26 last night.

The light snowfall at Sioux City, Iowa, and Virginia, Minn., melted as it fell.

Storm warnings remain displayed on central and eastern Lake Superior, and northern Lake Huron, through mostly fair weather is predicted for the Gulf states.

The Gulf states are the warmest spots in the country. Fort Worth was only four degrees under the century mark at its heat peak yesterday, and Florida, Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi were well up in the eighties and smaller nineties.

Chicago and New York, with temperatures about equal, had a taste of winter winds that brought out heavier clothing but generally fair conditions were expected.

PRESIDENT WAS PLEASED AT HIS VISIT IN OMAHA

Inspired by Patriotic Demonstration at Legion Meeting

President Coolidge's Train, En Route to Washington, Stansberry, Mo., Oct. 7.—(AP)—President Coolidge was on his way back to the White House today, inspired by the patriotic demonstration he witnessed in Omaha where the American Legion convention which he addressed, is in session. Pleased by the enthusiastic reception accorded him and Mrs. Coolidge yesterday in the convention city, the President saw in it a reassuring manifestation of solidarity and potential man power in America.

Late in the day the President boarded his train for the return trip to Washington carrying with him the memory of a stirring day and two presents, a gold watch presented by Washington state, a delegation to the convention and a "ten gallon" hat, a gift of the Texas delegation. The Presidential train, with a daylight ride through southern Illinois, Indiana and Ohio in prospect, was due in Washington tomorrow morning.

Robbery of Sterling Jeweler Frustrated

Sterling, Ill., Oct. 7.—(Telegraph Special)—Robbery of the Gehring jewelry store last night was frustrated by the suspicions of John Ward, an employee, his prompt report of his suspicions to Motorcycle Policeman Kempster and their notification of the proprietor, who hurried to the store and took all the valuables from the windows and locked them up.

Ward, working in the store in the evening, saw a suspicious looking man standing near the window. He recalled having seen him with two other hard-looking characters during the afternoon, and accordingly locked the store and hunted an officer, Kempster being the first one he encountered. When the suspect saw them talking he walked away, evidently having been a lookout for his pals, who were at the time probably trying to cut a hole through into the jewelry store from the Harden music store to the west.

Their work in the music store was discovered by R. B. Hull, an employee, when he entered the store at 8:15 and, finding a basement window open, investigated. He found a large hole cut, half way through the wall between the two stores.

GOOD HOGS AREN'T DEAD PROPERTY IN EXPERT'S OPINION

Farmers' Institute at Harmon Hears From Marseilles Man

The attendance at the first days sessions of the Lee Co. Farmers' Institute, held at Harmon Tuesday afternoon and evening, was exceptionally large, all of the speakers being present and the program being carried out as published in The Telegraph.

J. B. Rice of Marseilles opening his discussion by saying that he has observed a great interest and better feeling among the hog growers he had met as a result of a fair price for hogs as compared with the corn price, after a period of high-priced corn and ordinarily-priced corn.

Sanitation System.

He said the best step the hog raisers have taken is in making use of the McLean county system of hog sanitation. This does not mean that a farmer is running a sanitarium in keeping his herd free from worms, sore mouths, etc. The hog houses or farrowing pens can be cleaned by soaking floors and walls with water and the next day thoroughly scraping and scrubbing them. Alleys and runways for the sows must also be well cleaned. A few days before the sows are due to farrow they should be well cleaned and their udders washed. They should then be placed in a clean pen and kept there until the weather permits moving the sows and litters to a clean pasture, without allowing them to walk through dirty yards. Keep in good clover and alfalfa, or sweet clover with a good water supply. On every farm inspected where this has been done the results have been exceptionally good.

Feeding of the pigs from weaning time on depends on whether the farmer wants to market them quickly or hold them until late in the winter. Oats have proven a cheap food for growing pigs; ground oats for sows and smaller pigs; whole oats in feeders for larger sows. The cheapest summer feed found is alfalfa pasture or some kind of clover. Early fresh blue grass is good for a short while.

Tankage is Investment.

When the feeders reach the point where they can handle lots of corn, skimmed milk or tankage in addition will pay big. When fed with corn a pound of tankage will produce about a pound of pork more than the corn alone would do. Tankage is less than four cents a pound, pork more than ten cents. Good rape is very satisfactory if not pastured too close. Hogging down corn is proving the best way to husk corn.

Mr. Rice has judged the hogs at the Aurora fair for three years and feels that good hogs are not dead property.

BUDD'S MEMORIAL HOME ESTABLISHED NEAR LIBERTYVILLE

Episcopalians Interested in Million Dollar Institution

The Diocese of Chicago, a publication devoted to affairs of the Episcopal church, has the following concerning the $1,000,000 Budd Memorial Home, which has been established near Libertyville. Many Dixon Episcopalians are interested in the project.

A life-long ambition and hope of the late Mrs. Katherine Kreigh Budd, wife of Mr. Britton I. Budd, for the establishment of a home for children, is to be fulfilled. This announcement is made with the filing with the secretary of state at Springfield of an application to establish a corporation to be known as the "Katherine Kreigh Budd Memorial Home for Children."

Carrying out Mrs. Budd's expressed wishes, there has been acquired 200 acres of wooded land on the east bank of the Des Plaines River, north of Libertyville. This land will be turned over to the corporation established by terms of the legal proceedings. There, under the supervision of the Sisters of St. Mary of the Western Province of the Episcopal Church, will be established the home for orphaned children.

It is proposed that work will be started immediately on the main building of the new home, which will be headquarters of the school and dormitory for the Sisters and will include a chapel. By next spring is expected that housing will be available for the accommodation of about 100 children. When completed, the new home will be one of the finest of its kind in this section and will include facilities for more than 200 children.

Mrs. Budd, who died last January 18, was greatly interested in the work of the Sisters of St. Mary among children of the poor. When a young girl, she became a member of the Associates of the Sisters of St. Mary and in later years served as treasurer. The Associates are an organization dedicated to advancing the work of the order.

Trustees of the new memorial home will be, the Rt. Rev. Charles P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago; the Rev. Frederick S. Fleming, rector, Church of the Atonement; Sister May Sylvia of Kemper Hall, Kenosha, Wis.; Mr. Britton I. Budd, Chicago; Bernard J. Fallon, Edward J. Blair, Samuel Insull, Jr., Addison L. Gardner, Jr., Charles Ward Seabury, Chicago.

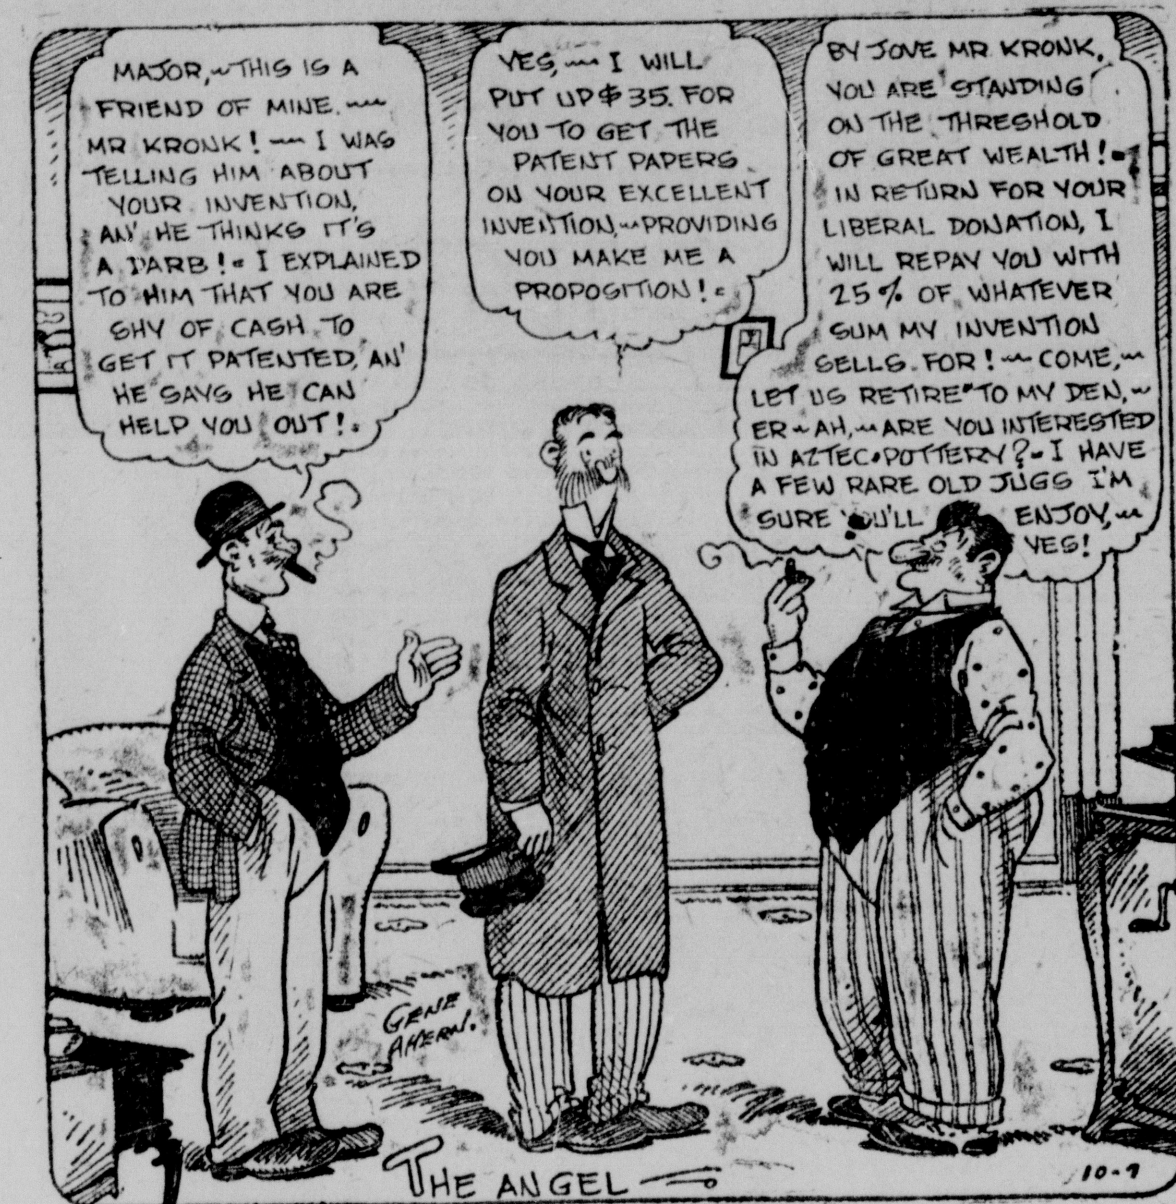

The application for charter states that the object for which the home is founded is "the spiritual, moral, intellectual and physical culture and education of: first, children, orphaned of both parents; second, children orphaned of one parent; third, those children who, by means of environment or inability or unfitness of parents, have not had the advantage of good home life and upbringing."

It further states that the home is to be established under supervision and care of the Sisters of St. Mary, or such other religious or charitable agency belonging to or under the supervision of the Protestant Episcopal Church, as the trustees may at any time elect.

Funds for acquiring the land and construction of the buildings have been provided by the estate of Mrs. Budd and by Mr. Budd. Funds for maintenance of the home will be provided by Mr. Budd.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHRENS

vised by Mr. Budd.

With the establishment of this new home, it is considered likely that in time it will take over the work of St. Mary's Home now located at 2822 West Jackson Blvd. It is pointed out that the location and surroundings of the new institution would be ideal for children now housed at St. Mary's Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Budd have been for a number of years members of the Church of the Atonement. Mr. Budd is president of the Chicago Rapid Transit Co.

RESIGNS OFFICE AS PROTEST FOR DEPOSED CHIEF

Vice President Fleet Corporation Hits at Shipping Board

Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Hutchinson I. Cone, vice president and general manager of the Fleet Corporation submitted his resignation to the Shipping Board today in protest of its action in removing L. C. Palmer as president.

The Shipping Board, Mr. Cone said, "openly defied" President Coolidge, when it sheared the Fleet Corporation several days ago of the wide powers given to it at the instance of the President, and it also ignored the President when it removed Mr. Palmer before the inquiry of H. G. Dalton, appointed to study the situation, had been completed.

"Without regard to other considerations," he added, "I cannot, as a retired naval officer, serve any organization that defies the wishes and policies of the president of the United States."

E. E. Crowley, who was elected president of the corporation to succeed Mr. Palmer, arrived from New York today and at once took the oath of office.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

OBJECTS TO TAX PLAN.

Polo, Ill., Sept. 26, 1925.
Dear Editor: In your paper of September 22, 1925, there was an editorial saying the wage-earners and farmers pay Mr. Ford's and M. Rockefeller's 40 percent income tax.

I am only a common farmer, and likely Secretary Mellon wouldn't pay any attention to me; but would suggest that you, as a member of the Associated Press, write to Mr. Mellon and tell him that the wage-earners and farmers are not highly enough educated to understand why an extremely wealthy man is so anxious to have his income tax reduced when the wage earners and farmers are paying it.

Why don't the millionaires keep still and let the common fellows pay their taxes? Millionaires surely must be tender-hearted.

And, furthermore, suggest to Secretary Mellon that if he would raise the excess income tax a little and apply it to paying off the national debt, we common fellows would pay off the national debt and never know it.

Don't you think that would be great? Maybe Mr. Mellon never thought of it?

Yours truly,
C. E. HAMMER.

Heat Your House With Coke

Cheaper and Better than Hard Coal and Goes Farther than Soft Coal.

When it is put in the coal bins there is no dust or dirt as with soft coal, or a great quantity of slate or rock as in hard coal.

It never smokes or gases. The furnace does not puff clouds of smoke and soot and gas as with soft coal.

There are fewer ashes than with soft or hard coal.

The housewife, who once uses coke for heating her home will never again use soft coal, because her curtains, drapes, rugs and wall paper look cleaner at the end of a winter of coke burning than they do at the end of the first month with soft coal.

There is no by-product coke equal to "QUICK FIRE COKE" because of the way it is "processed" and the quality of coals used in its manufacture. All you have to know is how to burn it properly to save one-quarter of your usual fuel bill for the winter. The Indiana Coke & Gas Company of Terre Haute, Indiana, makers of the famous "QUICK FIRE COKE," have issued an interesting pamphlet on coke and its uses and how to burn it, which is sent free on request to any householder.

Inset upon having "QUICK FIRE COKE." If no dealer in your town supplies you with "QUICK FIRE COKE" take no other for none other is so good. Write us and we will tell you how to get it and save money on your next coal bill.

RE-DISCOVERING ILLINOIS

By LESTER L. CROSBY

Illinois Chamber of Commerce

(This is the twenty-fourth of a series of articles valued "Re-discovering Illinois." Twenty-three have taken up individual cities and communities. Because the Illinois Products Exposition will be held in Chicago, October 8-17, this chapter is devoted to Illinois as a whole. Next week the study of cities will be resumed.)

Have you ever stopped to figure out how and why Illinois is the greatest all-around state in the Union? Those who care to go back into history and investigate will find that in colonial days, before the revolutionary war, there was a great talking and writing about "the Illinois country" which was even then recognized as the garden spot of America.

Getting control of the Illinois country was one of the political issues and before the colonists won their freedom from England they had struck at Kaskaskia and had gained control of the Mississippi river.

White men settled in Illinois before they settled anywhere else in the Mississippi Valley more than twenty-five years before the ground was cleared for the first houses in New Orleans. Then let us take an inventory of some of the facts about Illinois.

Illinois, twenty-third state in area, is third in population with 5,500,000 people. Only one state surpasses Illinois in total value of its farm crops in 1924, put at $554,000,000 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. That state is Texas, five times as large.

Illinois stands first in agricultural commerce and is the center of agricultural commerce of the United States.

Only one state produced more corn, Iowa. Illinois corn for the year was 219,000,000 bushels. Only one state produced more wheat, Kansas. Illinois wheat ran 59,000,000 bushels. Only three states exceeded it in cattle; only two in horses and mules, only one in hogs, Illinois stood first in farm tractors, 2,750 ahead of Iowa, its nearest rival. Only four states have more automobiles and only three more trucks.

Last year Illinois was ranked second in production of poultry but poultry experts predict that in 1925 it will come first.

Rail men point out that freight can be shipped easier, quicker and at less cost from all Illinois cities, as a group, to all other cities in the United States than they can from any other state group.

Illinois stands second among all the states in value of total farm buildings, according to the latest federal census and second in value of total farm property. Illinois produces forty per cent of all the nation's agricultural machinery.

Illinois has more railroad trackage, per square mile, than any other state. Its total of 12,545 miles of steam line and 2,700 miles of electric road is second only to that of Texas and, remember, Texas is five times as large. Illinois is the home of the greatest railroad center in the world, Chicago, and of the greatest traffic center crossing the Mississippi, East St. Louis. Chicago has thirty-nine radiating railroads and East St. Louis twenty-three.

Illinois has more concrete highway than any other state in the union and more miles of concrete roadway to the square mile. Illinois is building concrete highway more than twice as fast as any other state and has a bigger program in sight.

We back this statement with figures. The record of the six leading states in concrete highway building shows:

States:	Built In 1923	Built In 1924	Built In 1925*
Illinois	1,041.0	1,113.5	4,104.5
California	164.1	177.9	3,465.9
New York	397.0	551.2	2,784.2
Pennsylvania	365.0	624.2	2,707.2
Michigan	319.0	576.2	2,642.2
Wisconsin	432.0	586.2	1,921.2

(*Square yards completed reduced to equivalent mileage of 18 feet wide.) These figures give Illinois the most complete railroad system and the finest concrete highway system

$400,000,000 worth of jewelry yearly and $300,000,000 of its passes through the hands of Illinois jobbers.

Sixty-five per cent of the pianos of the United States are made in Illinois, all within 100 miles of Chicago. Illinois is the greatest producer of banjo instruments and the greatest market. China sends to Illinois for its guitars, Hawaii for its ukuleles and the negroes of the South for their banjos.

The center of population will be in Illinois in 1930, the center of wealth and buying power is already here and it is estimated that the center of manufacturing will enter Illinois in the very close to the Indiana state line by 1940.

Illinois is the greatest state in the union in production of commercial flowers and first in rose growing. Chicago is the greatest market for cut flowers. The "cut" in the Chicago district runs from 60,000,000 to 150,000,000 blooms weekly according to season.

Flower growers in Illinois have produced many new varieties for the state has its own banks. The new Prairie rose which has displaced the American Beauty in public favor is an Illinois product. Illinois growers have bred a blue carnation. It will be shown at the Illinois Products Exposition as will twenty five new sweet peas and other new flowers.

According to M. G. Barnes, chief engineer of the Division of Waterways State of Illinois, 56 per cent of the area and 70 per cent of the population of Illinois are within twenty-five miles of navigable waters. With the completion of the Ohio and upper Mississippi and Illinois river projects more than 10,000,000 people will be within twenty-five miles' auto truck or rail haul of an extensive system of waterways connecting the important cities with the Mississippi valley.

Within Illinois are twenty-nine universities and colleges and five normal schools. More than a million students go daily to Illinois schools.

Illinois is the greatest radio state in the Union. It has listed sixty-three broadcasting stations. New York is second with thirty nine. There are 45,000 receiving sets on Illinois farms; more than in any other state. I might go on. Illinois achievements are endless. But much must be left for the eye. The Illinois Products Exposition is in a great building, the American Exposition Palace, costing $10,000,000, the greatest building in the world. Humdinger of a state we've got, ain't it? If you are looking forward to being "in the center of things," center of wealth and activity, transport, trade, there is only one answer—Illinois.

The express charges on its first order, for it couldn't wait for freight service, was $2,300. Illinois produces lead and zinc and some of the largest and finest silica deposits in the country are in Illinois.

Illinois has a greater superpower system for electrical transmission than any other state in the Union. High steel towers and tall poles carry 7 to 9 miles of lines, ranging from 2,300 to 132,000 volts capacity, to 1,200 communities.

Illinois' plentiful coal supply makes possible steam power for electricity at low cost. This is supported by boundless water power from Illinois' many rivers. Interconnections between companies guard against breakdowns and service failures.

The Chicago district is the second largest electric power producing pool in the world. One plant now being built at Cahokia, near East St. Louis will cost $39,000,000. Engineers claim it will produce four times as much energy as Muscle Shoals.

Illinois is the home of the nation's greatest center for the distribution of general merchandise, dry goods, groceries, meat products, iron and steel, furniture, jewelry and many other lines of manufacture and distribution. The United States produces about

Morrison Robber is Captured in Clinton

Morrison—A man giving his name as James Phillips, 39 years old, and Detroit, Mich., as his home, was arrested at Clinton, Iowa, Saturday afternoon upon information furnished by Sheriff A. E. Hamilton and Marshall Charles Fletcher of Morrison. He was apprehended at a Clinton hotel and the local county officials were notified and they brought the prisoner back to answer to the charge of burglary. He has been identified as the man who entered the several Morrison houses in a general raid early on Friday and Saturday mornings of last week.

Friday morning nine houses, Wilson Bros. greenhouse, and McKee's store at Unionville were raided. Saturday morning seven homes were entered. At the greenhouse, Joe Wilson one of the proprietors, saw the robber at work just outside of one of the windows and he waited just inside ready to strike the man with an iron bar. The man failed to get into the greenhouse but in attempting to remove the glass Mr. Wilson observed that he cut his finger. When arrested Phillips had a slight cut on one finger. He also had some of the loot which was stolen.

PLANES TO CARRY OHIO STUDENTS TO CHICAGO SATURDAY

Many Will Accompany Wilce's Team to Crucial Game on Midway

Chicago, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Airplanes are being chartered in Columbus to augment the fliers in which Ohio State's enthusiastic rooters will come to Chicago Saturday. Three of the aircraft will carry supporters of the Buckeyes to Staggs Field, where the Western Conference title battle will begin.

A full strength lineup for the game is the prospect for Coach Wilce, with only Hunt, halfback, out with a broken leg, missing. Captain Cunningham, end, Marek, half and Nichols and Jenkins, tackles, are recovering from injuries and may be back before practice workouts end tomorrow night.

Conscious that the coming tilt is crucial, the Staggmen are not letting adverse weather conditions impede their practice. Work on aerial formations indicates that much of the Marion game may be off the ground.

Michigan, though favored to win over Indiana, in the only other conference engagement of the week end, is trying new plays and correcting errors uncovered in the opener with Michigan State. Indiana, meanwhile, leaving tomorrow for Ann Arbor, is buttressing its defensive, which has been pierced by the yearlings using Wolverine plays.

Britton Fries Guard.
Captain Red Grange of Illinois is taking little part in preparations for the game with Butler. Britton, his last year's running mate, is working out at guard.

Six of Notre Dame's premier performers may not appear against Beloit since Coach Rockne is conserving his resources for the coming Army game.

Defense is the forte of Dr. Spears at Minnesota this week, with the Notre Dame game on the horizon. The Grinnell and Washburn games, he hopes, will be taken care of in the regular order of things.

Shifts in the line are being made by Purdue in preparing for De Pauw. Probable shakeups in the Iowa line for the St. Louis game are indicated by Coach Ingwersen, while backfield combinations are experiments at Wisconsin for the "Franklin melee."

Return of Ralph "Moon" Baker to the Northwestern squad has balanced the illness of Lewis, full back.

Knox Football Team Leaves for Army Game

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Coach John Van Liew, Manager Everett Good and 25 Knox football men left in a special car for West Point, where they will play the Army Saturday. Stop offs will be made in Chicago to-day for a practice session in Grant Park, and at Niagara Falls, Thursday for a drill on a field there. Students accompanied the team to the train and gave them a rousing send off.

In the evening a joint session was held at the opera house with the band opening the meeting with a half hours concert. Dr. Eva Wilson followed with an address on Tuberculosis—What about it. J. B. Rice spoke on the Hogs at the Aurora fair and Frank I. Mann spoke on Our Economic Problem of Today. There were several vocal and instrumental numbers filled in between the addresses which were enjoyed and which received much applause. The speakers were very talented and had something worth while to say and the institute was a huge success.

Did You Ever Stop to Think—

BY

E. R. Waite, Secretary,
Shawnee, Okla. Board of Commerce

W. B. Storey, President of the Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway System, says:

THAT the settlement and development of the entire United States is due to railroad transportation which is less than 100 years old.

THAT every community desires railroad communication and that if it has one railroad it wants another, if it has two it wants a third and so on indefinitely.

THAT it takes a large amount of money—anywhere from $25,000.00 to over $50,000.00 to build even a single mile of railroad.

THAT the railroads must earn not only operating expenses, but interest charges on this heavy cost.

THAT the railroads pay a large percentage of the taxes, both state and national.

THAT they are the largest single industry in the United States outside of farming.

WHEN THE RAILROADS ARE PROSPEROUS THE COUNTRY IS PROSPEROUS AND WHEN THE RAILROADS ARE IN TROUBLE THE WHOLE COUNTRY SUFFERS.

The One who Forgot

By RUBY M. AYRES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PETER LYSTER loses his memory from shock on the Western Front. Upon his return to London he fails to recognize NAN MARRABY, the girl to whom he had become engaged before leaving for France. Nan has returned home from London, due to the death of her stepmother, to take care of her three small stepbrothers. She still writes to her friend.

JOAN ENDICOTT, who told her that Peter and a fellow officer, JOHN ARNOTT, were at the home of Arnott's widowed sister, not far from the Marray home. Peter also fails to recognize HARLEY SEFTON, although the latter claims to have been a friend. Sefton is a money lender, who has been calling on Nan's father. Today he has come to see Nan, who refuses his advances and is horrified when in a rage he tells her that both her father and Peter owe him great sums of money. He tells her that it is up to her to say whether he will press them or not. It is evening and Nan is in the garden when one of her stepbrothers calls her from the house.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was Claude she knew, and Claude was her favorite, but tonight she felt that she did not want him, that she could not force herself to answer his hundreds of questions.

She opened the gate and fled into the road.

It was quite a mild evening—the voice of spring was everywhere—and the promise of golden summer days to come.

Nan went on till she reached the stile where Peter Lyster had sat that morning with the primroses in his cap; she pushed it open and went on into the wood.

The narrow footpath was soft and mossy beneath her feet—some little wood animal, startled, rushed away into the dried bracken and last year's undergrowth as she approached; the tall trees, meeting overhead, made a dark canopy against the gray sky.

She was alone here, and the tears rained down Nan's face as she walked—all her pluck and bravery seemed to have gone now there was no longer need for self-restraint.

The brambles caught at her dress as she passed, and she dragged her self free anyhow as she went; she only wished that she might die out here in the darkness and silence—that there might never be any need to go back again and take up the burden which life had imposed upon her.

She never heard a step coming towards her down the narrow footpath—never saw the red tip of a lighted cigar through the dusk, till out of the silence a man's voice spoke to her—close beside her—so close that Nan gave a stifled shriek, and would have turned and fled, but he spoke quickly:

"Don't be frightened—I'm not going to hurt you—I'm anything the matter."

He paused. "Good heavens! Miss Marray," he said, amazed.

Nan did her best to check the sob that was choking her.

Peter flung his cigarette into the bracken, and stood beside her, distressed and perplexed.

She turned away. She leaned her arms against the mossy trunk of a tree and hid her face in them.

"I'm so—ashamed," she said; her breath was caught with sobs. "I'm not generally such . . . an idiot."

She dried her eyes fiercely, but the tears came again, and after a moment she gave it up; they were still running down her face when at last she looked at him.

A little crescent moon had climbed high above the tree tops, and there was a faint phosphorescent light in the woods by which they could see one another's face.

Peter's eyes were full of distress. "You must think I'm crazy," Nan said. She tried to laugh; she mopped at her tears again—she felt as if she would never regain control of herself.

"I've never done such a thing in all my life before," she told him. "I'm not a bit of a hysterical woman, really—oh, please believe me!"

"There isn't anything to be ashamed of," Peter said, his brows were knit into a frown. "I heard somebody crying—but I had no idea it was you. Is there anything I can do for you?"

Nan shook her head. Her lips were steadier now; she put her handkerchief away determinedly.

"Shall we go back?" she asked.

"And do you like being there?" Nan asked him, jealously. "Is Mr. Arnott's sister nice?"

"She's a delightful woman," Peter said quickly.

"Mr. Arnott said he would bring her to call," said Nan.

"I am sure you will like her; she has been kindness itself to me."

"Yes," said Nan, dully. "I shall like her, I shall like her."

They had come to an open space where the trees had been cleared. Nan stole a glance at Peter—he was looking at her, too.

"I notice you are wearing the badge of my regiment," he said suddenly; he touched the little enameled bow on her blouse.

"Yes—it was given to me—by somebody," she said in a panic. She put up her hand to the little ornament with a sudden nervous gesture.

"Arnott's sister lost her husband in France," Lyster said presently.

"Yes," said Nan; her cheeks burned. "And I lost my lover there," she said.

The words seemed forced from her; she tried to cover the tragedy in her voice. She knew that Lyster looked at her quickly, and when he spoke his voice was singularly gentle.

"Arnott did not tell me," he said. "I never speak about it," Nan said hurriedly. "I just go on and try to forget—always to forget."

"It's the women who suffer in this war," Lyster said moodily. "For us, at least we have the excitement and the risk—and always something new—something different—but for the women who stay at home . . . I think it is they who are the brave ones, Miss Marray."

Nan tried to laugh. "I hope they are not all such cowards as I was just now," she said, shakily. "And I hope you won't tell anybody that I cried and made such an idiot of myself . . ."

"I've never done such a thing before," she rushed on. "I don't know what came over me. It's a merciful thing you turned up and brought me to my senses, or I might have wandered on for the rest of my life, like Melba in the wood . . ."

She was purposely talking flippantly, and Lyster seemed to understand her mood.

They were at the stile now. "Perhaps you'll come to tea one day," Nan said, trying to make her voice casual. "We only have school-room tea and thick bread and butter, but I'll cut some thin for you—if you'll come!"

"I like it," he said, answered, laughing. "Save the top crust for me, Miss Marray, and I'll promise to come—let me help you."

Nan had deliberately pretended she could not mount the stile; she longed to feel his hands on hers again—she felt that she must snatch greedily at every moment with him.

Lyster vaulted the stile easily and turned to help her.

Postmaster Moyer Says:

NEW POSTAL CARDS

In view of the adoption by the Universal Postal Congress of Stockholm of the 3-cent postage rate for postal cards mailed in the United States addressed for delivery in foreign countries generally, the department will issue a 3-cent foreign single and a 3-cent foreign reply postal card of new design as soon as a supply can be manufactured.

The single card will be known as No. 11 and the reply card as No. 12. Both cards will be printed in red ink and bear the portrait of William McKinley.

Postmasters will receive due notice through the Postal Bulletin when the new 3-cent foreign cards are available; however, the present 2-cent foreign card should be used with a 1-cent stamp affixed thereto until the department is prepared to issue the new 3-cent cards.

The 2-cent foreign single and the 2-cent foreign reply cards will continue in use to meet the new rate applicable to postal cards addressed for delivery in Canada, Spain and its colonies, and the Pan American countries.

New York—The employees of a New York sightseeing bus company were given a holiday the other day. And what do you suppose they did? I happened to notice a long parade of them, riding about in sightseeing lusses, seeing the sights.

Visitors from the various Main Streets of the nation often comment, upon coming to New York, how free the average street is from the raucous shouting of newsboys. One can walk Fifth Avenue for miles without so much as meeting a newsboy and, with the exception of the corner stands, there are comparatively few "extra" shouters to be found on Broadway or elsewhere.

And on Sunday morning when practically every small town in America has its small boys in the guise of town criers shouting, "Sunday paypers!" one can stroll across the heart of Broadway and, dropping a pin, be practically certain of hearing its echo.

Every time I go to Coney Island after the season has ended, I am reminded of the morning after the circus in my home town in Ohio. Arriving upon the circus plot which had, just the day before, seemed a land of enchantment, we youngsters would find only a few deported pop stands, some sawdust circles of almost magic significance, and endless scatterings of paper and boxes, and other things through which we would pick and pick, winding up by holding our own circus in the "real" rings.

And so with the Coney Islanders! Last Sunday I saw thousands of them picking and kicking around the remains of the summer playland. Gates and locks and bars blocked the entranceways and the wind had lifted papers and small boxes and tossed them dirtily into the gilded lobbies of the gilded concessions.

Here and there a hot dog stand still held out against the season. And the people, even as we children, had to create a circus of their own. But they had grown up and forgotten the simple play instincts. So they seemed to me terribly restless and lost—and, hence, quite tragic.

The dyed-in-the-wool radio bug can be stopped by neither deity nor demon. A friend of mine, missing a late tram home to Long Island, was forced to put up at a city hotel. On the opened pages of the Gideon Bible on the dresser he noticed a scrawl of pencil notes. The first three pages of Genesis were covered with figures and tabulations on the cost of some fan's new radio set.

Arthur Felig, a photographer, tells me that yesterday he went into the largest photographic supply house in town to buy chemicals. He was surprised to see that they had turned half of their store space to retailing radios. But he was more surprised when he was able to purchase a second-hand radio set for $2 which would have cost him $15 to make him self.

Only one month more then the opportunity passes to receive our fine dictionary, worth several dollars. To our old and new subscribers the price is 98 cents, by mail $1.05. Dixon Evening Telegraph.
